How to Guide: Save a search

A guide to saving a search

For: ram breeders, ram buyers and service providers with a log in

If you are logged in you can search animals using criteria and save the search to view later. This is useful so you can easily find the same subset of animals in later browsing session.

Key steps to saving a search:

1. Log in – check that you are logged in to your account

2. Enter criteria and filters and click search. An example of a search is shown below

The screenshot shows the search tool interface with the search criteria and filters completed. The search form is filled out: 'I'm a ram buyer', 'I want to search Merinos', and 'I'm interested in Wool production and surplus sheep sales'. The 'Find' button is set to 'individual animals' and the 'filter' button is set to 'animals by criteria' with a checkmark. Below the search form, the 'Basic search' section is visible, showing various filters: 'BREEDS' (All Breeds), 'BIRTH YEAR' (Any year), 'SEX' (Any sex), 'WOOL TYPES' (All types), 'STUD OR FLOCK ID' (Stud name or 6 digit ID), 'Currently for sale', 'Semen available', 'Progeny in reference flock' (checked), 'Genomics tested & used', 'Merino Superior Sire', and 'PP Poll/Horn Result'. A 'RESET FILTERS' button is located in the top right corner of the filter section.

3. On the results page click “Save Search”
